

The Edublogger's Class Blog List

The Edublogger's Class blog list was set up in 2008 to showcase how class blogs are used and to give the educators ideas to use with their class blog with their students. It is also used by educators to help make connections with classes in other countries.

The list is separated into Grade levels, subject areas and country. We've also included the date the blog was set up (when known). A class blog with 'Since' and the date indicates the teacher has been blogging for awhile but is now using a different class blog URL.

It is regularly updated to add new class blogs and delete any class blogs which are no longer being updated. This list was last updated on Feb 29, 2012.
